Police chief initiates action against two officers for use of excessive force

By David Weller

An internal investigation by the West Sacramento police department has determined that two officers used excessive force while apprehending a suspected gang member.

"We have completed an administrative investigation, and we have determined that too much force was used," said Police Chief Larry Gore.

The two officers remain on administrative leave, which began in February, when the incident occurred. The police department has not released the names of the officers or the identity of the suspect they were apprehending. A third officer has been returned to duty after investigators determined that he was not at fault.

If the two officers decide to appeal the findings of the investigation, their names will become public record, but until then, the department is constrained by law from revealing who they are, according to Gore.

The incident occurred during what Gore described as a "routine stop of suspected gang members."

"There was nothing unusual about the stop," said Gore. Explaining that the individuals in the car were known to the officers, and that it is not unusual for them to stop people who have regularly been in trouble if they are out late at night, or otherwise appear suspicious.

When the officers stopped the car, one of the occupants ran away. The excessive force was used at the end of the foot pursuit, according to Gore.

'We have completed an administrative investigation, and we have determined that too much force was used.'

Police Chief Larry Gore

Exactly how much force was used is still unclear. Charges have been filed against the individual who was apprehended, who has subsequently been arrested and charged in other run ins with police, according to Gore.

Results of a district attorney's investigation into the actions of the officers are still pending.

Yolo High hit by 'Molotov cocktails'

■ West Sacramento's campus for continuing education, adult education suffers damage to its offices but opens for class the following day

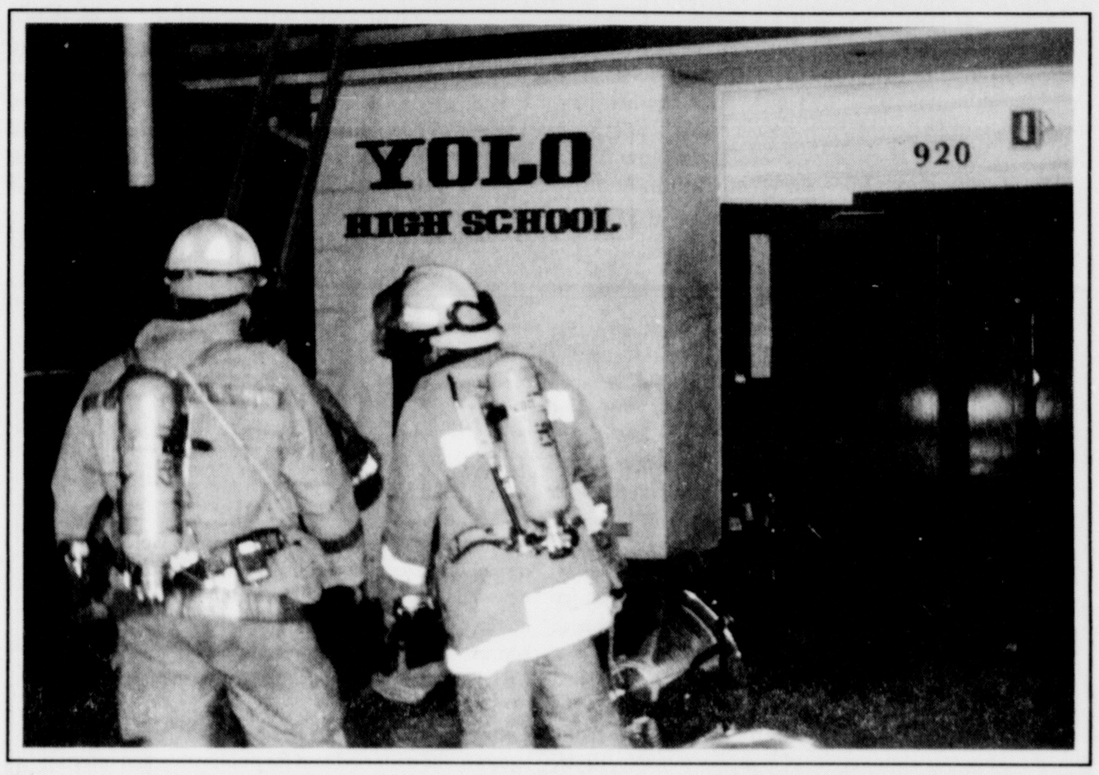
By Steve Marschke

Unknown suspects tossed a pair of "Molotov cocktails" at Yolo High School on Westacre Rd. Monday evening. Five fire units responded, limiting fire and water damage to the school's administrative office.

Although school computers were damaged in the incident, important data such as student grades had been "backed up" and saved.

"There were two (Molotov cocktails) thrown at the school," said Frederick Postel, West Sacramento's fire chief. "One went into the offices and one hit the wall outside."

The department received a telephoned report of the resulting fire at 8:39 p.m. Monday. A total of five units, including Chief Postel himself and the department's arson squad, responded and brought the situation under control within minutes. No one was inside the building at the time of the attack, said Postel.



Firefighters begin their cleanup after responding to a deliberately-set fire on the campus of West Sacramento's continuation high school on Westacre Rd.

"We have no idea (who did it)," the fire chief commented. "A couple of young people were seen running from the scene, but whether these 'young' people were teens or in their 20s, I don't know."

A Molotov cocktail is made from a bottle or jar filled with a flammable liquid, and stuffed with a wick. The wick is set on fire, and when the bottle is thrown and it breaks, the liquid spreads and catches fire.

Postel said the attack is under investigation by both the police and the fire department's arson unit, and that no arrests had been made by Tuesday.

Maintenance personnel worked afterwards to clean up the school in the hours following the fire, and to ready it for classes the next day.

Fix the port or close it, regional study warns

By David Weller

A joint study group composed of staff members from Sacramento, West Sacramento, Yolo County and Sacramento County issued a report last week recommending possible courses of action to ensure the Port of Sacramento's future financial viability.

The report came with a warning that if hard decisions are not made to find ways to raise $35 million to deepen the channel and to upgrade port equipment, then preparations should be made to close the port.

The report also included a dissenting opinion written by outgoing port director Mike Vernon and incoming director John Sulpizio which disagreed with several of the group's findings.

While the study group included staff from all interested agencies, the report was assembled and written by staff from Sacramento County. "We were responsible for putting it together, and I take responsibility for any bias it may have," said John O'Farrell," Deputy Executive for Sacramento County.

The final decision on the port's future is in the hands of the Port Commission, a five member board composed of appointees from the cities of Sacramento and West Sacramento, the counties of Sacramento and Yolo, and one at-large member appointed by the commission.

A recent increased political interest in the port's direction is indicated by the fact that members of the boards of supervisors of both counties have joined the commission. Dave Cox, Supervisor from Sacramento County, and Mike McGowan, of Yolo County, are now both port commissioners.

Of the $35 million needed for improvements, the report calls for $10 million to be raised immediately to pay for deepening the channel from 30 to 35 feet. Deepening the channel is deemed necessary to keep the port competitive by allowing in larger ships. Possible methods for raising money to keep the port afloat include selling most of the 3,000 acres owned by the port. About 500 acres of the most valuable land is currently zoned for industrial use, and is part of the port's long-term strategy for success.

Another possibility is privatization, which has a chance of success if the initial $10 million is raised for deepening the channel, according to the report.

The report describes a third option, public taxation, is considered as a possibility, but recent proposals for a district wide parcel tax have not proven politically viable. The report indicates that a parcel tax of smaller amount than has recently been proposed may be possible.

Sacramento: feasible to treat West Sac wastes

By David Weller

Sacramento County's water treatment district reported last week its treatment plant can handle sewage from the city of West Sacramento and from MacMillan Bloedel's proposed recycling plant.

"The ball is now essentially in their (West Sacramento's) court," said John Newton, an official with the Sacramento Regional Sanitation District.

At the request of the city of West Sacramento and MacMillan Bloedel, the sanitation district staff began studying the feasibility of annexing West Sacramento to the district, which currently serves the city and county of Sacramento, and the city of Folsom.

If such an annexation were to occur, sewage from West Sacramento would be piped downstream and under the river to Sacramento's treatment plant in Elk Grove.

Scenario envisions West Sac paying $33 million hookup fee, then having residents pay Sacramento to treat their sewage

For West Sacramento, joining the district would relieve the city of its ongoing problems with its sewage treatment plant. In addition it would provide a relatively convenient plan for handling large amounts of new sewage from the recycling plant.

The sanitation district staff analyzed information taken from testing at done at two similar MacMillan Bloedel Plants, as well as tests done at the current West Sacramento sewage treatment plant.

Samples were taken over a course of several months of sewage going into and out of West Sacramento's plant. The testing began in November 1994, which means that no samples were taken during the summer month's, when the plant traditionally has significant effluence problems.

The study found that the district would have no problems handling the kinds of materials that currently flow into West Sacramento's plant, as long as the city's current pretreatment programs are transferred to the sanitization district.

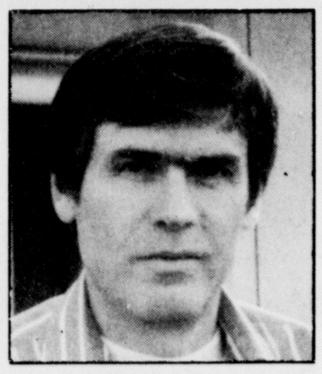
The report also showed concern for predicted levels of mercury, cyanide and dissolved solids to come from the recycling plant. These pollutants would need to be handled by additional restrictions on the plant, according to the report.

The city would incur an initial $33 million connection fee, which would include the cost of building a pipeline across the river. In addition, MacMillan Bloedel would incur a $28 million connection fee.

From that point, residents and businesses would pay monthly service rates to the district. The city, being an active partner in the district, would be responsible for collecting monthly use fees.

Keeping the 'bad elements' out of hometown West Sac

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

I was sharing a table the other day at the Pot Belly Deli with some people when one of them (he lives on the other side of the bridge and has no idea that this column even exists, much less that his words might appear in it) suddenly insisted on knowing why I like living in West Sacramento.

"Oh, lots of reasons," I told him. "To begin with, it's right smack dab in the center of everything. For instance, when I feel like going to the foothills, they're only 30-minutes away. If I want to spend some time in the high mountains, Lake Tahoe is just another hour or so up the same road. When I get an urge to be in a big city, the best big city in the world -- San Francisco -- is only an hour and a half away, and when I want to spend a day at the ocean, I just...."

"No, no, no," he interrupted me, shaking his head, "I didn't mean why do you like living in the Sacramento area -- I can understand that -- I like it, too. What I really want to know is why in the world do you continue living in this place -- in West Sacramento?"

"Well," I said tactfully, "I guess because it's home. I was born and raised in West Sacramento. My parents moved here from the Midwest right after my dad returned from World War Two and they bought a little house in a place called Westfield Village -- which is over by Westfield School."

"That's by McDonalds -- on West Capitol Avenue -- isn't it?" he asked with a startled expression.

"That's right," I said.

"So you grew up near West Capitol Avenue -- right by all those motels?" he asked, even more surprised.

"A few blocks away," I said, "on Michigan Boulevard -- if you know where that is."

"Do you know what kind of reputation West Capitol Avenue has over by where I live?" he asked as he took another bite out of his low-fat turkey sandwich, which only had mustard on it because he had just heard that deli sandwiches can often be fatal if you throw all caution to the wind and put some mayonnaise on them.

"It wasn't always that way," I assured him. "When I was young, West Capitol Avenue was part of the main road which ran between San Francisco and Lake Tahoe. That's why there's so many motels. They used to be filled up with really friendly travelers and they were a great place to hang out when I was a kid -- especially during the summer."

"Why?"

"Because most of them had a swimming pool and me and my friends would put on our bathing suits, hide our bikes in some nearby bushes, and sneak into them when no one was looking and pretend we were the kids of some of the people who had spent the night. The manager would usually get wise after awhile, but it was sure a great way to cool off when it got really hot."

"All I know," he said with emphasis," is that every time I've driven down West Capitol Avenue, I've felt like I was taking my life into my own hands."

"Really?" I said with a smile.

"I'm serious," he assured me. "Judging from some of the low-lifes I've seen hanging around those motels, you must have a terrible crime problem over here."

As the man continued to harangue me with all the other horrible things he had heard about West Sacramento from people who don't live here, I debated with myself as to whether or not I should waste the last few minutes of my lunch hour trying to tell him the truth -- that West Sacramento has thousands of wonderful people living in it; that most of them can still safely go for leisurely walks after the sun goes down; that our schools are a lot less violent than the ones in Sacramento County; that it only takes us five minutes to commute into Sacramento while everybody else is stuck in traffic mouthing epithets at each other; and best of all, that we have somehow managed to preserve a small town atmosphere here which once could be found throughout the United States.

Then, knowing that one of the reasons West Sacramento is still a great place to live is because most of the people who make their homes on the other side of the bridge are afraid to step foot inside our city limits, I put on my most convincing expression, wiped off a big glob of mayonnaise from the side of my mouth and said, "Well, I've got to get going. I don't like to leave my car in these parking lots too long -- vandalism, you know."

He nodded his head that he understood and I headed on back to work, hoping that I had done my small part to keep the worst element of all out of West Sacramento.

Sacramento assault:

Three karate club members catch robber

Wayne Simonsma (24), Mike Doose (23) and Tim Domich (24)

Three students of the West Sacramento Karate Club chased down a 16-year old youth who had beaten a couple in their 60s in Sacramento March 21.

Wayne Simonsma, Mike Doose and Tim Domich were inside Shari's Restaurant on Florin Road when a girl said a woman was being beaten outside.

The three found the youth walking away nonchalantly after knocking the couple down and attempting to steal the woman's purse, and held him until police arrived.

The Sacramento Kings (33-35) are heading into the most important week of the NBA season.

A month ago the Kings had the eighth and final playoff spot in the Western Conference locked up, but as April approaches Sacramento is a half game ahead of Denver (33-36) and the Dallas Mavericks (29-37) are closing the gap on both teams, trailing by just three games.

The Kings have 14 games remaining in the season and only seven games at Arco Arena, where their record is 23-11. This week, the Kings play Orlando (52-17) Tuesday night, then play back to back games against Phoenix (49-19) on Thursday and then travel to Seattle on Friday.

These are the top three teams in the NBA! The good news is they get three days to rest before they host the defending NBA champion Houston Rockets (41-27) on April 4 and then San Antonio Spurs (49-18) on April 6, who have the second best record and have already locked up a playoff spot.

The 49ers lost Ricky Watters to free agency as team officials decided not to match the three-year, $6.9 million offer from the Philadelphia Eagles. All that means the 49ers have a job opening in the backfield and will be accepting applications after the April draft.

I think it was a great move by the 49ers because Watters was a greedy, big-mouth player, who by the way, set up a 900-number for his fans to call about his career move.

The move leaves the Niners $2.8 million under the $37.1 million salary cap and gives them flexibility to re-sign Deion Sanders, Dana Stubblefield and other defensive players.

Watters was a big part of the 49ers winning the Super Bowl because he rushed for 877 yards and 719 receiving, but if you break down his rushing average over 16 games, it comes out to about 55 yards a game. Under the 49ers offensive system, they will find a replacement that can gain more than 55 yards, like Herschel Walker, or they may trade up in the draft for a shot at Washington's Napolean Kaufman or Colorado's Rashaan Salaam. The 49ers will survive without Ricky!!

The Final Four meet in Seattle on Saturday and Monday to settle the NCAA Tournament championship. UCLA will face Bryant "Big Country" Reeves and Oklahoma State and North Carolina plays Arkansas. This year marks 20 years since UCLA won their last NCAA title, and also ended Oklahoma State's 44-year absence when they won the title in 1951. UCLA over Oklahoma State, and Arkansas beats North Carolina! UCLA wins over Arkansas in overtime!!

Port study shows region won't favor a land tax

The new, regional study of the Port of Sacramento sheds just a little more light on the Port's role (and its perception) in Sacramento and East Yolo.

Foremost is the fact that Sacramento city and Sacramento county do not wish to tax themselves to support the facility, which occupies a good chunk of real estate in the city of West Sacramento. They just aren't clear on claims that this would be the best use of additional land taxes -- over, for instance, law enforcement or regional libraries.

Just what the Port's economic benefits are remain hazy. How cost-effectively does it generate trade? Create employment?

The study warns that, without drastic action such as a new land tax or the sale of Port of Sacramento real estate, the facility will sink into oblivion.

What remains needed, particularly from West Sacramento's point of view, is a study that tells us what will happen with this drastic action.

Is the Port of Sacramento a viable, cost-effective long-term facility?

Letters to the Editor

GSMS P.E.

I wish to state admiration for my school's current Physical Education Department and its program.

As I complete my sixth year at Golden State Middle School and in the Washington Unified School District, I cannot help but reflect on that program when I first arrived.

Many students had only disdain for the P.E. program. More students sat on the sidelines than participated. "Fail" grades were numerous -- students did not care.

That year, under the leadership of Ms. Cardinet and suuported by Mr. Chlubna/Mr. Wilson and 6th grade P.E. teachers, the turn-around began. Basic uniforms were introduced. Discipline and student attitudes slowly improved.

As the years slowly progressed, so did the overall quality of the program and student participation.

This schoo! year, under the leadership of Ms. Wilkinson and suuported by Ms. Cardinet, Ms. Erickson, Ms. Miller, Mr. Brown, Mr. Chulbna, and Mr. Wilson, I see a different scene. While sitting at my desk correcting papers, I can look out of my classroom window and see students participating in numerous stimulating actiivities and enjoying them! My students strive for high marks.

This department today, in my opinion, is among the best (if not the best) department at my school. These teachers have proven that nothing is impossible if you are willing to set and demand high standards of your students, stick to them, and exhibit those standards yourself. This is precisely what they have done!

"5 Blind Mice"

Three property owners offered to work with the City in order to facilitate a land deal so they could retain ownership of their own property and were told by the Council and Redevelopment (the same people who tell us they have no money for police) that Raley's could hold onto their land but they could not. Council was told that the deal was speculation; but they spent your tax dollar anyway (it was a "needful thing"). Taxpayers need police on the streets, but like any addictive person, power to do the right thing eludes their ethics.

Next, council passed an "inclusionary housing" ordinance. Now they are going to ask the public to pay twice by getting a percent of your tax dollar money to do what they're mandated to do and then charge you to build what you already pay them to do. But Redevelopment and council don't care because its not their pocketbook their fleecing, it's the taxypayer's. They have money to gamble with but none to do the job they're paid to do. If they act nice to you and remember to smile at you, they'll remain elected because it's the voters that have chosen to pick people because they're "nice," not ethical or judicious.

If you oppose or question something the staff is considering, you may go to council meetings and voice your opinion. They will tell you that your statements are irrelevant or that they're past or not yet to that part of some program. They won't tell you why, nor will council let you question their statements, because the public looking smart inconveniences the council agendas -- especially if it's something their spending your tax dollars on.

Last but not unnoticed, Wes Beers asking planning commissioners for Cohill's resignation is like telling you that only people who slant the facts and vary from their real convictions are eligible to serve as a "Beers" appointee.

Additionally, now that McGowan's aspirations are elsewhere, you may remember that he helped determine the dollar amounts for the redevelopment agency's impacts on police, fire and code enforcement. Now that he's Yolo Supervisor, he is saying that Yolo wants its impact fee. Where was his mind at when he left West Sacramento with too few dollars for police. His loyalty seems to change towards raising temperature of his popularity...just like Beers. Folks, politics has become the "Gong Show" instead of a representation on behalf of our best interest.

Housing issue

It has become somewhat old to hear this chatter from that vocal handful of our Southport neighbors that any housing less expensive than the market value of their most expensive nearby homes is totally unacceptable. Of course most are saying they do not want anything nearby to lower the value of their property. Hooray! Not many others do, either. But the "total NIMBYism" should be matched by some efforts to help locate some of that unwanted development where it would be least objectionable; e.g., low-income and affordable housing.

Those who object the most to affordable housing should stand up and be counted. Others should take note and conclude, "Well, if you're too good to have me as your neighbor, I do not care to patronize your place of business (etc.)." Not a formal boycott, but you get the message...Please also note how fast the expensive housing (to be) is (not) moving at Lighthouse Marina. "Fine," others may say, as the status quo is okay with them.

But the status quo is not what the vast majority of Southporters and other West Sacramentans want. The Southport Plan includes a light rail plan for the future with higher density housing (which is more affordable() closer to where the light rail service is expected. Public transit is used and should be used by those not allowed to drive (for legal and medical reasons), those who cannot afford to drive and those who may simply be tired of fighting the traffic. The more people who adhere to this, the safer our roads will be; hence, the more those who continue to drive legally should support -- not reject -- efforts to make the rest of the public more mobile; hence, more self-supporting.

Development and redevelopment are challenging issues when done properly. When substandard housing is torn down, replacement housing should be provided in more ideal locations before tearing down the substandard with temporary repairs being utilized more often.

Those who wish to build before the Industrial Bridge is completed should include in their infrastructure costs the costs of extending YoloBus service beyond the 5:00 p.m. hour to/from Southport. Get signatures from those living in Southport, especially from parents of young children. The bottom line is the net effect on traffic.

Donkey-kicks

I was not only sitting down, but fell off my stool when I started reading the letter from Ms. Hope Herr captioned "Agreeing with Joe," News-Ledger, 3/22/95. This was a very noble gesture by Ms. Herr being very well-read on the subject of Christianity and not being judgmental of religions; however, in the last few paragraphs of her otherwise well-written letter, she saw fit to cast a few sharp barbs at Rush and Newt, which seems a little unbecoming of a nice, charming Christian mother as Ms. Herr appears to be.

She speaks of Elizabeth Taylor and a stampede of Elephants in the movie called "Elephant Walk," which is fiction. I have a real-life story about a mule which was half mare and half donkey. when I was four years old I wandered out into the pasture where there were two mules, one "Barney," and the other "Mag." Mag ran me down and the cork of her shoe grazed the back of my head. I now have a one-inch scar on the back of my head. I know what it feels like to be ran over by a donkey. I have been ran over by Jack (As) for the last forty years.

It was in the news a few days ago that a six-year-old carried a handgun into his school. I suppose he took it to shoot the Republicans when they came to take the food out of his mouth and cause him to commit crimes and live in tent city because they are going to throw him out on the street as Ms. Herr would have us believe. This is all scare tactics used by liberals to cover their tracks of 40 years of mismanagement.

Liberals would have us believe President Ronald Reagan caused the five-trillion national debt, but anyone who can see the end of their nose knows it was the so-called great society and war on poverty created by Lyndon Baines Johnson that created this bankrupt condition our country is in today. Thirty years of total dependency on the federal government has caused more poverty and homelessness than anytime in my memory. Let's hope the Republicans can keep their contract with America that got them elected and turn things around. If Republicans put their "itty bitty" brains to work, maybe they can solve what Democrats could not in 40 years.

Love

On Father's Day, June 19, 1994, my father passed away and is now in a better place watching over me and his other loved ones. I had the honor and privilege to assist him during his final days. I was able to spend many weekends helping and caring for him. Each and every moment I had with him, I treasure and hold very tightly in my heart.

It was hard, sad, and sometimes extremely frustrating not being able to "kiss it and make it all better," or "make the pain go away," like he had done so many times for me as a child and adult. Fortunately, my father and I became close. He was my "best friend." I often told him how precious he was to me, how much he meant to me, and how much I loved and appreciated him.

To who ever may read this: If you are a parent or a child who does not say "I love you," please do it. Do not wait another minute, hour, or day for tomorrow may be too late. And that very well could bother you for the rest of your life. No matter how hard it may be, tell that person, who has missed you saying those words. It feels so good to say it and to hear it. And it will open many doors in your relationship. During his last days, I gave my father "double doses" of "I love you's," and did everything humanly possible to make him happy and comfortable. I am at peace about his passing.

I want to express my deepest gratitude to the Yolo County Hospice Organization; I applaud you and your efforts in helping people in need. Thank you to my brother-in-law Darrell for his help in getting my father to and from his radiation treatments and for doing some of the things mother, my sister Edith, or I could not do. Thank you Frank, for your patience, continued support, the way you helped me get through everything day in and day out. To our family and friends, your cards, flowers...I am blessed.

By the way, "Mother, I love you!!!"

A SPLENDID BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY IS OPEN IN 'WASHINGTON

With nearly 350 men at work in the Sacramento Valley Dock and Warehouse, the two rice mills, the box factory and the dried vegetable packing plant of Horst Co. in West Sacramento, there is a splendid opportunity for some enterprising citizen to make some good money.

All the men in these large plants either walk to Sacramento for their noon meals or bring along with them their lunches. To a hard worker, a cold lunch is disagreeable, hence many of them cross the bridge to the Sacramento restaurants at the noon hour.

Three years ago, before any one of these plants were in operation, a restaurant located in West Sacramento townsite did a thriving business for a time but was subsequently closed.

At this writing there is an opportunity for some person with a little means and some gumption to make a fortune in this locality.

Another thing that is an absolute necessity is a large rooming house or hotel. This would be a paying proposition even from the start and no doubt will be taken up by some enterprising citizen very soon.

Building lots in West Sacramento townsite can be had at this writing at very favorable figures, while later on substantial prices will be asked for those lots.

In all probability the West Sacramento Company will place on the market soon many of those lots that have stood idle within the townsite for several years past.

The immediate necessity of a boarding house in close proximity to the five great industrial plants in West Sacramento is apparent to any one who will take the trouble to stand for a few minutes on the M-street bridge when the 12 o'clock whistle blows.

REED HOME HAD NARROW ESCAPE FROM DESTRUCTION

A fire whose cause is unknown last Tuesday night threatened the complete destruction of the home of Hayward Reed, during the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Reed in Marysville.

The fire originated in one of the bedrooms of the second story of the house about 8 o'clock, burning a bed, carpet and other furnishings. After the discovery of the fire by a Japanese servant, the employes of the Reed ranch hurriedly formed themselves into a volunteer fire department and by their efforts the fire was prevented from spreading to the remaining part of the house. It is believed that the electric wiring may have been the cause of the fire.

The Reed home is situated north of Riverbank, but the embankment of the Northern Electric Railway prevented neighbors from seeing the fire and sending the Riverbank fire company to assist in extinguishing it.

The total damage will not exceed $100, which was covered by insurance.

SALMON SEASON COMING IN

Local fishermen are getting ready for what they think will be a good run of fish during the next two or three weeks.

Already the fish are beginning to show and some fair catches of salmon, bass and shad have been taken.

Fishermen who sell to the markets or wholesalers are now paying a license of $10 per year the same as the Hindu or Japanese.

They complain bitterly against this especially because they can practically work only during three months of each year.

A man named Boyle, Governor of the State of Nevada, is reported to be a strong Prohibitionist.

Judging by his name, one would imagine there was enough Irish in him to be a man.

According to a newspaper report, the Park Board of Sacramento, is going to build a $45,000 comfort station in Southside Park.

IMPROVEMENT CLUB WILL RENEW ACTIVE WORK AGAIN

Practically inactive since the epidemic of influenza swept over the State last fall the Washington Improvement Club has decided to renew its former activity for the benefit of the community and all the citizens.

This has been the subject of comment for several weeks because the people recognize that the club was the real and only civic body in Washington that had a standing with people outside the town.

While other organizations have been doing all they could for civic betterment the Improvement Club came to be recognized the central body around which the others revolved.

The next meeting will be held in the Town Hall next Tuesday evening and all taxpayers and citizens are invited to be present.

Two matters of importance are to be discussed: the extension of gas mains to supply the homes in the town, and the reduction of electric light rates to householders.

In the question of a reduction in electric light rates the Railroad Commission has written as follows:

Notice Resetting Hearing on Order To Show Cause.

To All Interested Parties:

You and each of you are hereby notified that the Railroad Commission of the State of California has reset the hearing on order to show cause in the above entitled matter before Commissioners Devlin and Edgerton from April 29, 1919, to Tuesday, May 6, 1919, at 10 o'clock a. m., in the Court Room of the Commission, 9th Flood, Flood Building, San Francisco, California, at which time and place Pacific Gas and Electric Company has been ordered to appear and show cause why the surcharges hereinbefore authorized in the above entitled proceeding should not now be reduced or removed and that such adjustments in existing rates and schedules, as to the Commission may seem proper should not be made, and at which time and place you may appear and be heard.

By order of the Railroad Commission.

Dated at San Francisco, California, this 26th day of March, 1919.

H. G. MATHEWSON,
Assistant Secretary, Railroad Commision of the State of California.

The meeting will be called to order by Mrs. E. A. Palm, president of the club, at 8 p. m. sharp.

A large attendance is expected because of the importance of the questions under discussion.

ELECTION FOR SCHOOL TRUSTEE HELD TODAY

This afternoon the election of a school trustee to succeed Mrs. M. L. Manchester in Washington district was held in the public school building.

Several weeks ago Mrs. Manchester announced her intention to retire in order to permit some other person take her place.

A few days ago she changed her mind under the pressure of many parents.

Today she had no opposition, or no opposition had developed at a late hour last night.

PARENT-TEACHERS WILL DANCE TO HELP SCHOOL CHILDREN

Determined to secure playground apparatus for the public school grounds the Parent-Teachers' Club of Washington has set to work with a will to procure funds to purchase the goods.

Several meetings have been held and committees appointed to do the work.

The method really available to secure those funds is through dances or entertainments and that method has been selected.

On April 1st the first of these dances will be held and it is going to be a good one. Besides good music there will be "good eats." There will be candy (home-made), sandwiches, coffee and other good things and all donated by the mothers of the children who attend the public school.

There is another object also to be attained.

A delegate must be sent to the State convention at Santa Cruz in May. That trip will be expensive to the delegate and the cost must be furnished by the club.

Two committees of five members each have been working on these objects and the members begin to see daylight.

Last Wednesday they consolidated and elected a joint chairman, A. A. Dassonville. The other members are Mrs. A. A. Dassonville, Mrs. F. De Riso, Mrs. M. L. Manchester, Mrs. P. A. Hart, Mrs. F. L. Moser, Mrs. E. L. Blackington, Mrs. R. M. Colclough, Mrs. C. A. Kiff and Prof. A. L. Case.

MOSS & SILBERSTEIN WILL DISSOLVE ON APRIL 1

Partners in the butcher business during the past four years and continuously increasing their trade during that time it has been decided by Ed Moss and Arthur Silberstein to sever their partnership on April 1st, Moss remaining in Washington to conduct the local store and Silberstein to conduct the People's Market in Oak Park.

There has been no disagreement between the partners. They separate without any unpleasant feelings.

It is simply a case of two young men branching out to attain bigger things.

Eddie Moss was born and raised in Washington. He learned his trade in Sacramento and his business has grown through attention, courtesy and fair prices.

Silberstein was his faithful helper and together they made a splendid working team.

Many friends wish them well in this new venture.

EXPRESSING THANKS

To the people of Washington who so kindly treated me during the past four years while engaged in the butcher business in the town I desire to express my sincere thanks and appreciation.

Furthermore I bespeak for my partner, E. Moss, the continued good will of all the people and ask that after I have gone to new fields of endeavor they remember his earnest efforts to please them and render them the best possible service.

ARTHUR SILBERSTEIN.

INFIRMITIES OF AGE CAUSED DEATH OF M'ALLISTER

Last Wednesday the remains of James McAllister were interred at East Lawn Cemetery in Sacramento.

He was the father of Mrs. Agnes Kinch, a respected lady of Washington.

Ten years ago McAllister came from Ireland to join his children in California. He liked the climate and his new environments but often talked of his old home near the Giants Causeway where he had spent so many years and where he was respected as few other men were.

He was a county guardian or, as is known here, a supervisor, for 16 years and was a land valuer which is still more responsible.

He was 85 years old and leaves a large family to mourn him. He had been sick during two months but was only confined to his bed during the past three weeks.

He was the father of William and James McAllister of Philadelphia, Alexander, with the A. E. F. in France; Neal R., Frank K., Nellie and Anna McAllister of Sacramento and Mrs. George Beale of Sacramento and Mrs. Agnes Kinch of Washington.

McAllister was a quiet but determined man. He was stern in his justice but just without qualification. He was a splendid father and a fond husband.

Five students win VICA honors

By Yolanda Robles
News Editor

In the wee hours of March 4, twelve Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) members ventured forth to participate in the region's annual VICA competition at Foothill High School. Five were victorious: Denice Cole and Toua Lee won gold medals in electronics and silver medal winners were L.J. Hughes in beginning drafting, Mike Ballard in cabinet making, and Jared Lewin in carpentry.

"We promote vocational skills learned in vocational education classes," said Mr. Yarwood, VICA adviser.

The gold medal winners go on to the state competition being held this year in Sacramento. Silver medal winners have a chance to go to the state competition if there are enough open spots.

"I think we did very well for as unorganized a competition that was presented to us," said Mr. Yarwood.

There are many different areas and levels of competition. College and high school students compete right along side of each other, Mr. Yarwood said. Mr. Yarwood feels it is a real disadvantage that River City does not have advanced classes and is not able to compete in the higher levels of competition.

The three-hour competition usually involves a skills test. This year River City competed in beginning drafting, architecture, architectural Computer Assisted Drafting(CAD), electronics, electrical CAD, cabinet making, carpentry, and welding.

The seven other VICA members that competed were Scott Minnis, Deanna Cole, Bob George, Bill Johnson, Jason Schrimsher, Caleb Monroe, and Ben Flint.

Mr. Yarwood confidently said, "We are already gearing up for next year."

RC Madrigals and Choir show off at Sacramento State

By Cristina Barraza Rubalcava

On March 4th, River City's Choir and Madrigal singing group attended the 40th Annual Golden Empire Music Festival at CSUS. The festival is a competition to rate the musical talent of each group individually.

After each performance, a three-person panel of judges, high school and college vocal directors, provides a little constructive criticism and a score of I, II or III, superior, excellent or good.

River City Music Director, Delores Henson, prepared and conducted both Choir and Madrigals at the competition.

Early that morning RC's Choir sang, "The Drunken Sailor," "When Jesus Wept," and "Drill Ye Tarriers," for which they received two II's and a II-.

"I thought we could have done better, but [the scores] were good for being a beginning choir," said a gracious Lindsey Altern.

The Madrigals entertained their audience with three Renaissance pieces entitled, "Cantante Domino," "Adieu, Sweet Amarillis," and "Counterpoint of the Animals," which featured animal sounds to a bass chant. To the dismay of the Madrigals, the judges gave the group a II a III+ and a III.

A disgusted Melissa Murphy observed, "Due to the lack of men in our group we were down graded!!" The only guy in the Madrigals that competed that Saturday was upset at the comments mentioning him as the only bass singer in the group. "I was only one of five bass singers. I rely on the lady basses for every song," said a miffed Jeremy Fristoe.

Mrs. Henson added, "The Choir was given high scores for its performance and the Madrigals were given low scores for their performance. In my opinion, the Madrigals should have been given twos."

Four-year Madrigal veteran DeAnna Capel summed it up well: "I don't think we deserved what we got, but it doesn't matter because I know we deserved better and everyone else knows it too."

School library gets bloody as RCHS students are sucked dry

On February 22, River City High School had its annual blood drive. A total of 79 people donated blood and 62 pints were collected by the Sacramento Blood Center. The blood that was collected will help up to 186 patients.

Many students said they gave blood because they want to help people who are in need of blood but at least one teacher provided extra incentive: extra credit.

Ty Fisher wins Rotary Club speech contest on friendship

By Jae Dal Bianco
Staff Writer

The Rotary Club recently held a speech contest open to anyone at River City High School. The topic for the speech was "to be a friend." and it had to be 5-8 minutes long. Out of many contestants Ty Fisher, a junior, took first place at the club level and will advance to the district level to compete with contest winners from other Rotary Clubs.

Ty Fisher's prize was $100.00. Carol Avina took second place and was awarded $50.00. Rebecca Shubin took third place and was awarded $25.00. The speech contest was held at Club Pheasant in West Sacramento, at a Rotary Club luncheon meeting.

Nothing to cheer about:

Cheerleader uniform disappears from class, nowhere to be found

By Karri Smith
Staff Writer

February 1 was a disaster for cheerleader Jennifer Newkirk. After helping to clean up the Signet assembly, Jennifer discovered that sometime during her work a thief had gone into Ms. Johnson's classroom, and stolen her uniform. Was it a random crime?

After days of looking, and bulletins offering rewards for the missing uniform, there was still no luck! Jennifer was devastated that someone would steal her uniform when there were numerous bags in the room including other cheerleaders' uniforms. What's more, Jennifer wouldn't be able to finish out the year cheering without a uniform. Besides that, she "just wanted her uniform as a keepsake" for her sophomore year.

Well, Jennifer didn't give up. She went to her cheerleading adviser who couldn't help her replace her uniform, but did help get a deal for a half-priced replacement. She then went to her parents who paid for the first uniform and they couldn't pay for the replacement either. The leadership class decided to contribute to the replacement cost. Three weeks of lunchtime bake sales netted $100.

"The uniform has been ordered and is to be in sometime in April," Jennifer said. She will cheer in the last two rallies of the year.

Staff Writer

The Pajama Game, the hit musical comedy of 1954, will come to West Sacramento on May 4,5,11,12,13 in the Yolo High School auditorium. It's a story of love, laughter, and factory workers' struggle for a "7 1\2 cent raise."

This high school production will be directed by Roy Engoron, English and drama teacher at River City High School. Laura Garcia of the Dance Factory will choreograph, and River City's own Justin York is shaping the voices of these student-actors as the head music director.

The Pajama Game cast members are Jennifer Bettencourt, Moses Cushing, Alicia Dosty, Rhapsody Flores, Faith Hiatt, Raquel De La Paz, Jennifer Hernandez, Jessica Honsinger, Irene Hernandez, Cassie Hawkins, Brian Kinney, Misty Lobato, Bethany Monroe, Heather Mayhew, Jennifer Newkirk, Yolanda Robles, Andrea Smith, Kao Chio Saetern, Eddie Tactol, Brian Throne-Lopes, Melanie Treichler, Tony Venditti, Andradi Villalobos, Elizabeth Vaca, and Ron Wahl.

Laser-combat for charity:

Come test your taggin' skills at Q-Zar fundraiser

By Melissia Mejia
Staff Writer

Some of you readers know what Q-Zar is. Others of you go "Q-what?" Basically, Q-Zar is a relatively new laser tag game. In the game you are separated into two teams, the green team, and the red team. One object of the game is to capture the other team's headquarters. To take the other team's headquarter's, you must first get there, and then you must shoot and hit a rotating sensor on the ceiling twice. You'll know you've hit it if sirens ring and a strobe light flashes.

The other object of the game is not to get tagged (shot). Immediately after you get tagged, you have six seconds when you can not shoot anyone else. The first three seconds you can't get shot, the remaining three, you can get shot, so find a place to hide.

At the end of the game all team members are ranked. Top Gun is the best. Next Time Duck is the worst.

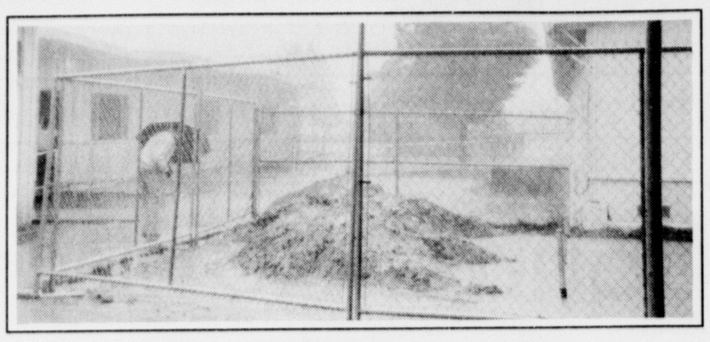
River City and Q-Zar, have teamed up for a fund raiser. So if you want a new, cheap way to have fun and support your school at the same time, buy Q-Zar coupons, available from leadership and the student store. Q-Zar is located across the way from Arden Fair Mall, next to Chuck E Cheese's.

'Principles of Technology' soon to be offered

By Saurabh K. Sharma
Staff Reporter

What is it? Some say it is the new swimming pool. Others say it is a jail to house unruly students. There are strange rumors of what is buried in that pit. The truth is that the fenced-in compound at the south end of school is neither a UFO launch pad nor the last resting place for Jimmy Hoffa or any other loser. The area will soon be the home for two new portable classrooms.

Students enrolled in Ms. Lactis's new class, Principles of Technology, will be working with industrial equipment, pumps, motors and oscilloscopes. The hands-on class is for juniors and seniors interested in technical careers in repair, trouble-shooting, manufacturing and management. The class will deal with electronics, pneumatics, hydraulics and mechanical systems. It will prepare students to earn a two-year vocational degree, opening the doors to jobs in many of the businesses in West Sacramento. Students at Florin High School who have had a similar program do better on the Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery (ASVAB) exam for placement in the armed forces.



Watery site of new hands-on science class

The elective class is recommended for students in the red career path. The class involves very little book work. Students won't work with theory, but only with what is needed to work the equipment. Ms. Lactis added, "This took a large amount of financial commitment from the district. I appreciate their vision in recognizing how valuable this course is going to be to this community."

Construction has started on the two portables at River City High School. The present classrooms are crowded and these rooms will lessen the burden of teachers who have to move from class to class with their belongings. Presently, River City has four portables and nine semi-portables. According to River City High School Principal, Dr. White, the portables were planned with Superintendent Dr. Miller in September, and passed by the school board a few months later. Depending on the weather, the portables should be installed in the beginning of April and equipped by the beginning of May. Dr. White stated, "I'm excited we have two new classrooms. They will be in full use by September."

One of the new portables, will be equipped with thirty new IBM compatible 486 computers, valued at $60,000. Computer teachers, Mr. Hanagan and Mr. McMahen, will work as advisers of the lab until the school hires an instructional aide or a new teacher. This will be the third computer lab and will be open for students use.

New team shows girls how to get a kick out of soccer

By Bethany Monroe
Staff Writer

March is here, and so is the new addition to this years spring sports: girls' soccer.

The season began well for Coach Restivo and the team when Miro Odich from Soccer Locker donated eighteen uniforms.

There has never been girls' soccer at River City High School since, an intramural team eight or nine years ago. So, most of the players have little or no experience. The team only has one senior, goalie Sofia Savala. Since there are more lower classmen, the soccer team will gain experience as the years go by.

While River City High School has a junior varsity and varsity soccer team, the league only plays varsity games. So, the more advanced junior varsity players are rotated into the game. Parents, guys who played soccer in the fall, and classmates come to see the girls play. Hopefully, when it stops raining there will be more fans at the games.

Although River City girls' soccer got off to a rough start with injuries and players with little experience, Coach Restivo says, "No one has given up." That's what makes a good team.

The soccer team players are Carol Avina, Jennifer Bettencourt, Raman Bola, Tiffany Doeuk, Leticia Farris, Wendy Foster, Jacquline Fristoe, Lisa Galvez, Amy Greenhalgh, Amy Hemmens, Melissa Hemmens, Chanthachone Inthirath, Leslie Lamkin, Marylou Lara, Sarah Lesly, Indira Macsul, Rena McCranie, Kristy Moyer, Alyssa Murphy, Irina Nelipovich, Myra Padilla, Raquel Peralta, Poonam Prasad, Natasha Rojo, Tammie Sammons, Sofia Savala, Jennifer Scruggs, Tammy Tiderencel, Shelly Taunk, Marie Vasi, and Trisha Warford.

History teacher honored:

Ronica Carlisle: fitting choice for staff of month

By Yolanda Robles
News Editor

Mrs. Ronica Carlisle, River City's favorite feminist, is March's staff of the month.

Mrs. Carlisle began working at River City seven years ago. She was the second person in her teachers' group to get a job offer. "I said I wold take the first job offer I got," Mrs. Carlisle said, smiling. Luckily for River City, they offered her a job first.

Mrs. Carlisle was inspired to become a teacher because of her uncle who teaches in Fresno. Teaching gives Mrs. Carlisle a chance to do her favorite thing, talk. "I love to talk," Mrs. Carlisle said, giggling, "I also love an audience."

During Mrs. Carlisle's seven years at River City she has seen many changes. Mrs. Carlisle has been under four principals and five vice-principals.

Mrs. Carlisle said, "This is my happiest year. The new administration has been great."

This year, Mrs. Carlisle has been involved in the observance of Women's History Month at River City. "I read an article in the Chronicle last year that prompted me to think River City should do something," Mrs. Carlisle said. She talked to her honors U.S. history classes last year and asked them for ideas on what activities to do for Women's History Month. Mrs. Carlisle worked with the district office and Mr. Mesquita to get supplies for activities.

"I hope it helps students realize how much women have contributed and how much they've been ignored," Mrs. Carlisle said about the observance of the month. Mrs. Carlisle hopes the girls on campus feel inspired by the activities during Women's History Month.

Mrs. Carlisle is an inspiration to most students at River City. Hopefully, she'll never change and will keep inspiring more young girls with increased activities during Women's History Month.

Potential employers from throughout the greater Sacramento area bring career information and guidance to high school career fair

By Davorn Sisavath and Bethany Monroe
Staff Writers

Despite the weather on March 9th, over 45 different potential employers from throughout the Sacramento area came to River City High School for the school's first career fair. It was said to be the largest at any high school in the Sacramento area this year.

The career fair had originally been planned to take place inside and outside, but due to the rain, over 1200 River City students had to cram their way into the gymnasium, library, and cafeteria to learn more about their career interests. There were many booths and exhibits set up for each career path, such as the Lederwolff Culinary Academy for the green career path which is Recreation, Environment, and Health and KPWB TV-Channel 31 for the purple career path which is Arts and Communication. Each student is assigned to a career path during his or her freshmen year after taking a test to assess areas of interests.

River City students were given on hour to find out as much information as possible on their career choice and collect as many brochures as they could carry. Teachers were worried that the career fair would be too long, but students' interest didn't fade.

Andrew Peters, a sophomore in the red career path, said that what he liked best about the career fair was the exposure to job opportunities.

The purpose of having a career fair at the high school was to give students a better appreciation of the numbers and varieties of work opportunities in the job area, and it was another way to motivate the students to succeed. It is hoped that the students will become more focused on their education as a necessary first step toward a successful career.

It was a successful first career fair for River City. "Students gained more of an insight and better perspective of the world of work," said Mr. Hanagan, one of the career fair coordinators. Next year's plans are for more presenters and better weather.

Students disagree with law targeting unlicensed drivers

By Raquel De La Paz
Staff Writer

On January 1, a new law went into effect that put stricter penalties on non-licensed drivers. If caught once, your car will be impounded just as always but if you are stopped twice it is now possible for law enforcement to sell your car at public auction. Many students at River City High School do not agree with this law.

In a fifty-student poll only eight agreed that this law would be an asset to the community. All of them believed that we don't need a bunch of uneducated drivers on the road, and that this new statute will, maybe, make unlicensed citizens think again about cruising the streets. Selling their car would definitely intimidate them.

On the other hand, the majority of students believe the law to be unfair and ridiculous. One student said that "It's the government's own underhanded scheme to make money off of the lower class society. Most of these unlicensed drivers have jobs! How are they supposed to keep them without any source of transportation?"

In an interview with one unlicensed driver who has asked to remain anonymous, he told us, "I drive better than most licensed drivers. They think that since they have a license they can get away with anything by just paying a fine." This student went on to say that he is worried because his job depends on having transportation. Most students agree that law enforcement has no right to sell your car. They believe that raising fines would work effectively. Another student made an interesting point:"Why go get a license if you have no car to drive?"

The Drivers Training coordinator for W.U.S.D, Mr. Bob Rackley, said that this new law might make parents think twice about allowing their kids to take the car out without a license or insurance and also might persuade the adult public in general to go through the process and get a license. He did add, though, that this law is only good if the money made off of it goes back into education and not if into law enforcement.

According to the majority of River City students, this law is unfair. They believe that this law should be abolished. Unfortunately, they have no say in the matter. A concerned student left those unlicensed drivers with some good advice: "If your car means anything to you, you better watch out!"

The 'ins' and 'outs' of getting into college

By Saurabh K. Sharma
Staff Reporter

It is that time of year, a time when seniors wait in anticipation of that special envelope. That letter announcing they have won the ten million dollars, the TV, the U.S. flag, and the green Buick? No, that letter saying they have been accepted to the Elvis Presley College of Singing and Sideburn Growing. I, being the average senior, and having a severe allergy to menial labor and burger frying that a high school diploma will provide, plan to go to college. For those of you who still have to earn seniority, I will show you the ins and mostly the outs of getting into a college.

First of all, know your counselors. At River City we have three counselors. Mr. Allen is my counselor, and I am sure he would agree when I say I really need counseling. Your counselor has the ability to help you find a good college, get your transcript together, move objects with his mind, write letters of recommendation, and gain access to your social security number.

Next, you must take the SAT. This stands for Suffering and Torture. People pay to spend their Saturday mornings in Oak Park taking a test, while others are at home in bed for free. It consists of a never-ending exam on English: read paragraphs, answer questions, and walk on hot coals. Then comes the fun part. After you take the SAT, you can take the SAT II. Just like Ghostbusters II, the SAT II is worse than the first. You can take Suffering and Torture in math, essays, physicks, chemistry, biology, and mind control. In the end (yes it comes) colleges use this one three-hour exam to see how you compare to others of your age. They also get your address and send junk mail to your home.

Next, you get teacher recommendations. It is advisable to get a recommendation from a teacher who likes you. If your teacher gives you bad looks, throws things at you, has a voodoo doll of you in her desk, chances are you shouldn't ask.

In September you should arrange to get college applications. These are free so you can take as many as you want, even if you don't need them. They are free!! They ask the usual questions! Have you ever been convicted of a felony? Name, age, real hair? Have you ever been within 50 miles of a biker gang? Have you ever passed out at a Rolling Stones concert? Are you a Republican? Classes taken? Grades received? Grades wanted? They prefer that you type the responses but if you can't, don't use a pencil or fluorescent pen. There is also an essay question. Have your English teacher check them for you. They don't mind. It's not like they have a life!

In good colleges, colleges in which the Dean's first name is not Bubba, an interview is required. They interview you. Things to remember: don't put anybody down, fish for the right answer, snoop around when they take bathroom breaks, don't mention any use of Prozac, and, most of all, don't tell them that if the U.S. went to war you would be on the first bus to Canada. And if they ask for science projects, don't mention homemade stills.

And one last thing, join after-school clubs. They look good on the application. Unfortunately, you can't lie, that is reserved for politicians only! If you lie on the application they send a big guy named Bubba and his four brothers named Darrel to punish you with banjo music.

There are all kinds of clubs out there, including the Chess Club, Academic Decathlon, BEST, WORST, SATISFACTORY, Future Mail Carriers of America, Future Grave Diggers Association, and my favorite, the Future Members of the Past. Well, that is all I have to say, right now. I hope my first-hand experience helps you in your trek to college.

National Women's History Month celebrated

By Davorn Sisavath
Staff Writer

March is National Women's History Month recognizing women internationally. Throughout the women's movement, women have gained the right to vote, work, and choose whether or not they want to be mothers.

River City High School is observing National Women's History Month with special posters and photo displays of women's suffrage, women in government, and Hispanic women. Also, everyday, an item of women's history or about influential women is featured in the bulletin.

Mrs. Carlisle, US history teacher, feels that it is a great idea for RCHS to observe this month and as a feminist, meaning one who believes women have choices, provided a short film, "One Fine Day" to her students which focused on three specific parts: the suffrage, industrialization, and modern women's movement.

The observation of women's History Month was fully supported by Dr. Linda MacDonnell, Assistant Curriculum Superintendent, and Dr. Donna White, Principal of RCHS. The materials which are being displayed were given by the Women's History Project of Northern California.

A featured speaker at the March 9th Career Fair was Rita Risser, attorney and author of Stay Out of Court! The Manager's Guide to Preventing Employee Lawsuits. Her topic for the students focused mainly on sexual harassment and how to prevent it. Rita Risser conducts training programs for companies on how to hire, manage, and terminate employees without getting sued. She also represents employees suing their companies on wrongful termination, sexual and racial discrimination. Rita Risser is an example of a woman in control of her destiny and RCHS was fortunate to have her as a speaker during National Women's History Month.

Two views on women's rights, responsibilities:

Whatever a woman's place, it certainly is not on the front lines of a battlefield

By Jason Schrimsher

"Women and children first," is a saying as old as disasters themselves. It is ingrained in the souls of most men to always watch for the safety of the women around them. I would say that it is an instinct for men to watch after and protect their women. I think that most women would have to agree that this is not a bad thing--just as most women would have to agree that a man opening a door for her is not necessarily a bad thing. To go a step further, I am sure that there are women out there who would love to stay home and take care of the house rather than spend 40-plus hours every week trying to maintain an executive position.

At times, women's ingratitude amazes me. Before World War II, many women were "forced" to stay at home and take care of the family while the men went off to work every day. Women were mostly content until they found during the war that they, too, could earn money. Women's rights have been moving forward astonishingly since then. I have nothing against women's rights, mind you, but were they really ready for what they asked for? Are all women happy now that both members of most families have to work in order to survive? This is simply one example of women wanting something that isn't really what they bargained for.

Why shouldn't they? We have all wanted something at one time or another that did not meet our expectations. Now many women want another disappointment. They want the "privilege" to fight in a combat situation for our military. First of all, we come to this whole ingratitude thing again. Women should be extremely thankful that they will never have to bear arms against another person in order to protect their freedom. Should women have to register with Selective Service and drafted? No one would say yes to that question, but some women believe that they should be allowed to join. Once again, this shows someone wanting the possible benefits of something without wanting to face the possible drawbacks. Do you want equality? Yes! Should it be legal to have you drafted into service? Absolutely not! Does this sound equal? I am not saying that women should be drafted and fight in a war. On the contrary, I want to say that a woman's place is not on the front lines of a battle field.

This takes me back to my opening statement. Men have a built-in instinct to protect women. This is not a good thing in a combat situation. Both genders make mistakes, mistakes that could possibly get that person killed in combat, but a woman's mistake could not only cost her life, but also the man who tried to save her. There is no way that men and women could fight together. It would be too much of a distraction, and there are always tensions between the sexes--tensions that our soldiers shouldn't have to deal with.

Furthermore, should a woman with PMS be handed an M-16? I think not!

Are men afraid women will prove they can do an equal job in the military?

By Melissia Mejia

I feel that if a woman is as trained as a man and has worked just as hard as a man, she should have the right to defend her country. It is not a matter of what gender you are. I have seen some women that can handle a lot more than some men and vice versa.

I do not believe that it is a privilege to stay home and cook the bacon that my man brings home. I am willing and able to go out, shoot my own pig, make my own bacon and cook it, too.

Certain males feel like it's their job to take care of women. Excuse me, I can take care of myself and I will, not because I'm a woman, but because I'm a human being. If I need your help, I'll ask

The truth is that certain men are afraid of women in power, whereas women have always had to put up with men in power. Why are some men so scared? Are they afraid a woman would do just as good a job as they could? Or worse, maybe a better job than they?

I'm not trying to be rude, I am trying to get my voice heard. Go ahead, open my door for me, treat me like a lady. But please don't cut my meat for me, I'm perfectly capable of doing it myself. I can drive a car and shoot a gun. And if given the chance I will defend my country in combat.

It basically comes down to, if a woman can get the job done better or just as well as a man, then she should be allowed the freedom to do so.

Whether it is in the job field or in combat, women should have the right to choose for themselves.

New color to melt in your mouth, not in your hand

By Cristina B. Rubalcava

In April, M&M/Mars will shock avid chocolate lovers and rock the foundations of generations to come with the announcement of the new color addition to the M&M's package. River City students were asked to participate in a sample voting for the new M&M's color. Students had to choose between pink, blue, purple, or no change. Here are the results: 43% of the students voted for blue, 41% voted for purple, 6% voted for pink, and 10% voted to keep the package as is.

Here's something else to think about. According to officials at M&M/Mars, there are 30% brown, 20% yellow, 20% red, 10% tan, 10% orange, 10% green candies. So how would a new color change that?

Next issue:The official poll result.

Watch for the next issue of the River City High School Review – right here in the News-Ledger!

Support the News-Ledger as it helps the River City High School journalism class and help keep subscription costs down!

Prices for newsprint are rising, and producing this newspaper was about 15 percent more expensive than it would have been a couple of months ago. And at the same time the U.S. Postal Service raised the price of a first class stamp from 29 cents to 32 cents, it raised the rates we use to bring our subscribers their weekly copies of the News-Ledger.

It occurred to us that it might be necessary to raise subscription rates to cover these rising costs.

But we're going to try not to. There is another way. With your help, we can keep our annual subscription rate right where it is -- at the unusually low rate of $15 per year within Yolo County and $20 elsewhere.

How?

By helping to get more subscribers to the News-Ledger, you can help reduce costs for everybody. It's called the "economy of scale." It's cheaper, per person, to print and mail 5,000 copies of the News-Ledger than it is to print and mail 2,500.

In 1994, the circulation of the News-Ledger grew by over 20 percent, to nearly 3,000 actual paid copies per week. If we grow by a similar amount in 1995, we can hold your costs right where they are.

We hope you agree that West Sacramento is a better place because it has a locally owned, independent newspaper to help keep the community informed. We hope you'll help support that newspaper by encouraging a friend or neighbor to subscribe.

And, by the way, another way to support the News-Ledger is to patronize our advertisers whenever possible and to mention their ad in the News-Ledger when you visit them.

Thank you.

Please help out by giving this coupon to a non-subscribing friend who may be interested in becoming more informed about the West Sacramento community:

Help support students' trip to the capitol

From Golden State Middle School

Once a year, Golden State Middle School students are able to participate in the Earth Shuttle Program. The Earth Shuttle Program allows middle school students to go on an educational field trip. These trips are designed to involve and motivate students. The program was developed by professional educators, including a consulting team from Boston University's School of Education. This year's destination is to Washington, D.C. This unique trip will offer the students the opportunity to explore our nation's capital and visit the historical sights that founded this great nation. From the early settlement of Jamestown to historic Williamsburg, students will be involved in history and the workings of our government. Currently we have approximately 20 students going. Each student is responsible for raising their share of the cost of the trip.

We have been having fundraisers in West Sacramento, with our biggest coming up on March 30. We will be having a spaghetti dinner at the West Sacramento Moose Family Center. We will be offering two seatings, with raffles and a door prize. The cost for the dinner will be $4 each. All profits will be shared by the students that work that night. Please come out and support our students and their hard work.

For more information, call Mrs. Cook at 371-0173.

KJAY program:

Radio show explores protecting kids from abuse

Jeff Hays and Susan Addington, executive producers for Capstone Entertainment of Salt Lake City, will be the featured guests today on the weekly Chamber of Commerce radio show "Kaleidoscope," broadcast between 12:05 and 1:00 p.m. on Radio KJAY, 1430 AM. Also on the program will be Lisa Cox, the community services officer from the West Sacramento Police Department.

The entertaining and highly educational video production, "Get Street Smart: A Kid's Guide to Stranger Dangers," will be discussed, along with the Neighborhood Watch program. Programs like this will bring to mind the importance of being prepared for preventive practices against child abductions.

The show will be broadcast live from Johnnie's Sidewalk Pizza, 1301 Merkley Avenue, in West Sacramento. The public is invited to come in for lunch and listen to the show with this week's host, Jesse Orta.

Organizations and individuals wishing to participate and discuss topics of local interest are encouraged to contact the West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce at 371-7042.

Included in the program is a local community calendar. Sponsors of the show are Johnnie's Sidewalk Pizza and the West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce.

Librarian's report:

Library sets goal of 3,000 new cardholders in '95

From Jay Johnstone
Yolo County Library
Arthur F. Turner Branch

The Arthur F. Turner Branch library has announced a registration drive to sign up at least 3,000 new borrowers this year. The registration drive will kick off with a month of activities in April beginning with National Library Week, "Libraries Change Lives," April 9-15. As part of the celebration, the East Yolo Friends of the Library will give away 3,000 library book bags to new borrowers beginning in April.

Each Saturday in April beginning April 8 at 2 p.m., the library will present an activity program related to the theme "Libraries Change Lives." The programs are sponsored by the East Yolo Friends of the Library and feature local authors, storytellers, publishers and booksellers. Admission is free.

Leading off the celebration will be "Mary and the Mime," the acclaimed duo of author Mary Euretig and mime Dale Reinhard, whose interactive presentation is designed to stimulate budding young authors to write and read. Suggested audience: ages 5-10. The authors have performed for elementary schools in Sacramento, Davis and the Sacramento Book Festival and Sacramento Reads. Mary Euretig is the author of Simply Celebrating Children. Their works are childrens' activity books and will be available for purchase at the presentation.

Succeeding weeks will feature presentations by Turner Library Children's Specialist Cathy Lorda (April 15), Sacramento author-publisher Dierdre Honnold (April 22) and avid reader bookstore owner Alzada Forbes (April 29).

National Library Week is being celebrated all month, according to branch manager Jay Johnstone, because the staff and friends of the library are eager to share the pleasure of reading and lifelong learning with as many people as possible. The library hopes to make Saturday afternoon programs a regular feature.

For more details, visit the Arthur F. Turner Branch Library at 1212 Merkley Ave. in West Sacramento or call 371-5612 or 371-9274.

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may be otherwise interested in the will or estate, or both, of JOHN HOWARD YARWOOD:

A PETITION has been filed by CHRISTOPHER ROBIN GROVE in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

The PETITION requests that CHRISTOPHER ROBIN GROVE be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The PETITION requests that the decedent's WILL and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

(This authority will follow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in section 1250 of the California Probate Code. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a formal Request for Special Notice of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in section 1250 of the California Probate Code. West Sac looks for applicants for city planning commission

The City of West Sacramento is currently accepting applications for the Planning Commission. The Planning Commission of the City has the powers and duties prescribed by city ordinance and state statute, including planning and zoning law, the subdivision map act and CEQA; they are designated as the board of permit appeals for decisions of the zoning administrator and sit as the board of zoning adjustment.

The public sector alternative analyzed in the report would include some form of a co-operative effort on the parts of the governing agencies involved in the port to borrow money for the improvements.

About the economic value of the port, the report describes continuation of the public venture as "risky."

"Unfortunately, our conclusion (one that is not shared by Port staff) is that even if the capital is raised to upgrade the facility, the Port is, for a variety of reasons, a risky business venture under any circumstance.

"In concluding that the port's future seems to be risky, it should be pointed out that throughout its years, the port has been a successful enterprise. Despite reports in the press, the Port is not, nor has it ever been, a drain on public resources," the report said.

In the dissenting opinion, Vernon and Sulpizio, took exception to the conclusion that the port is a bad or risky investment, and recommended against "any plan that forces the sale of all the port's lands as a short-term solution.

They also argued that the report "fails to sufficiently acknowledge the fundamental public nature of a navigable waterway as transportation infrastructure."

The two port directors recommend that the three governments contribute $10 million over a four year period to deepen the channel and that the port borrow $10 million on the land in order to reduce its debt and make investments in facilities. In addition, they would like to see limited privatization.

Supervisor seeks commissioners for aging

Yolo County Supervisor Tom Stallard is currently accepting applications to fill a volunteer post on the Yolo County Commission on Aging.

The Commission on Aging is responsible for studying and evaluating grants and program proposals affecting Yolo County's seniors. Members of the commission also identify and develop methods for addressing unmet needs of seniors and helps coordinate the administration of health, nutrition, transportation, housing and recreation services. The Commission on Aging also serves as an advisory board to the Board of Supervisors.

"Seniors are such an important part of our community, they deserve a strong advocate," Stallard said. "They should feel safe in their homes and have access to the services they need."

Members of the Commission on Aging are appointed to three-year terms and should reflect the ethnic makeup of the senior citizens in Yolo County.

The new appointee will replace Ms. Ursula Steele, who has served on the board for close to a year and a half. The new board member will join Ms. Joan Dalton, who was reappointed by Supervisor Stallard at the Board of Supervisors meeting Tuesday, March 7.

For an application, contact Supervisor Tom Stallard at 666-8621 or by writing to 625 Court Street, Room 204, Woodland, California, 95695, and expressing your interest.

Correction

A recent Local Scene item in the News-Ledger stated that the local VFW Post on Drever Street was "hosting" an April 1 party with Dave Farmer, Rick Mayoral and Mike McGowan.

Although the party will take place at the VFW post, the group is not a host of the party. The News-Ledger apologizes for the error.
